COMMENT OF THE DAY

Mr Sandys' Task

THE decision to invest Britain's Defence Minister Duncan Sandys with wider powers is an interesting, but not wholly unexpected one. Its purpose, apparently, is to facilitate the task of streamlining the nation's armed forces, bringing them into line with present-day requirements, and simultaneously to reorganise the directorates and commands of the three services.

These developments were foreshadowed some time ago and given some substance when Mr Anthony Head, shortly before Sir Anthony Eden's resignation, announced that the Royal Auxiliary Air Force and the air arm of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve were to be disbanded. This was a clear indication that a programme was in hand for a complete reorganisation of Britain's defence forces.

Under the administrative system which existed before Mr Macmillan's accession to the Premiership the undertaking was not easy to achieve, not the least reason being the jealous guarding of the independence of the three services by their chiefs and Crown ministers. In the appointment of Air Marshal Sir William Dickson as chief-of-staff to the Defence Minister, as well as chairman of the Chiefs-of-Staff Committee, can be discerned the Prime Minister's determination to bring about unification of the three armed forces.

MR Duncan Sandys is now given the power to take all decisions regarding the stationing and composition of the armed forces, the type of their equipment and their armament. Additionally he has the right to intervene in the appointment of senior officers and is instructed to reduce administrative costs. One inevitable effect will be to cut the individual power of the parliamentary ministers responsible for the three services; another to facilitate quicker policy decisions on the highest level.

The Chiefs-of-Staff Committee is also going to be placed in a new position. Their chairman will be the Defence Minister's right-hand man, ensuring direct contact between the committee and the parliamentary Authority. Here again there can be a radical elimination of red tape and of indecision caused by departmental jealousies.

The task which Mr Duncan Sandys is given is in the purpose: to reorganise the armed services in such a way that they measure up to standards required by the rapidly changing types of weapons and armaments, and at the same time effect a substantial reduction in defence costs. To do this it is essential he be given powers to carry through the programme without unnecessary impediment. The urgent needs of the moment require strong and largely unfettered action. Mr Sandys is the man chosen to meet the challenge, and his past performance as a minister suggest that he will deal with it successfully.

WANTED: HOME FOR AN ALLIGATOR

Norfolk, Jan. 24. The Norfolk (Virginia) Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had a tough problem today: to find a home for a 70-pound four-and-a-half foot alligator.

Not even the zoo will take him. Four teen-agers dug the cold blooded beast out of a city park on Tuesday.

"We were digging about three feet down in the hole when we saw his tail wagging," 14-year-old Bob Joynt said excitedly. "and I jumped out of that hole."

Young Joynt and his four companions, all aged 13 to 15, slipped a noose over the alligator and pulled him from his lair. The capture ended a two-week-long scare during which parents stopped children from playing in the vicinity.

But the SPCA Manager, Mr Maynard Johnson said the boys were in no great danger when they dug him up. The alligator, he said, was cold and sluggish, in a semi-hibernation state, because his blood temperature was the same as that in the air around him.

Mr Johnson said it was rough, too, to find the alligator at home, but he was determined to do it. The first place he turned to was the Norfolk Zoo, but it said it already had plenty of alligators.—United Press.

INDIA THWARTED IN U.N.

Kashmir's Status Quo Ordered By Security Council

MENON'S RECORD SPEECH

New York, Jan. 24. The United Nations Security Council tonight approved a resolution calling for the maintenance of the status quo in Kashmir while the Council continued consideration of the dispute between India and Pakistan over the state's future.

The resolution which was adopted by a vote of ten to none with the Soviet Union abstaining reminded "the governments and authorities concerned" of six resolutions adopted by the Council between 1948 and 1950 declaring the principle that a plebiscite conducted under United Nations auspices should decide final disposition of the state.

It further said any action taken by the Indian-supported Constituent Assembly of Kashmir "or action by the parties concerned in support of such action" would not constitute a disposition of the state in accordance with the principle of a free and impartial plebiscite.

Pakistan's Complaint

Pakistan had complained that India was taking steps to "disrupt" Kashmir into the Indian Union through steps contemplated by the Kashmir Constituent Assembly next Saturday.

The resolution was sponsored by Australia, Colombia, Cuba, Britain and the United States. Earlier today Mr V. K. Krishna Menon, Indian Minister without Portfolio, concluded a marathon seven and three-quarter hour speech which greatly bettered all previous United Nations records.

The old record was established by Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, then Pakistan Foreign Minister in February 1950, when he spoke for six-and-a-half hours also on the Kashmir question.

Just before the vote Mr Menon strongly criticised the resolution and declared: "The only effect it can have is to renege this question."

Pakistan had asked the Council to take up the Kashmir issue again after five years because she said the Indian Government was "taking steps to integrate the state" into the Indian Union.

Mr Menon told the Council yesterday that all that would happen at midnight on Saturday was the dissolution of the Kashmir Assembly. He said India had no intention of agreeing to a plebiscite. Jammu and Kashmir were and should be an integral part of India and this came into force last November.

The Council advanced further debate on the Kashmir problem to an unspecified date.—Reuter.

Japanese Official On Serious Charge

Kobe, Jan. 24. More than $44,000 worth of Japanese cotton prints were shipped to South Africa last year with false inspection stamps, it was alleged today.

Hisaaki Kondo, 61-year-old official of the Textile Dyeing Inspection Office, was in custody of police after admitting he had left a complete set of export inspection stamps and chops with a Kobe dyeing firm.

Police estimated that 3,186,490 yards of cotton cloth worth $441,666 were shipped to South Africa bearing this set of stamps.

Employees of the Kazama Dyeing Works pressed the approval stamps on the cloth and then turned the fabrics over to first-ranking export companies, such as Itochu, who accepted the stamps in good faith, it was said.

'TRUSTED THEM'

Kondo was described as an official of the Textile Dyeing Inspection Association, an organization set up by textile companies with Government authorization to check the quality of export goods.

Kondo claimed he left the stamps in custody of the Kazama Company, which he said he trusted, because he did not have enough men to do all the work at his station.

The Kobe office must inspect three to four-million yards of cloth each month, he said, but it has a staff of only four inspectors.

Police charged, however, that Kondo received $1,055 in commission from Kazama.

A spokesman said he believed there was "considerable bribery" in the Export Inspection System and urged the need for overall strengthening of control over inspectors.—United Press.

GAITSKELL ASKS FOR MEETING WITH IKE

London, Jan. 24.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr Hugh Gaitskell, called for a meeting between the Prime Minister, Mr Harold Macmillan, and President Eisenhower.

He asked in the House of Commons today that this meeting should be preceded by a conference of Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth.

Replying to Mr Gaitskell's proposals, Mr Macmillan said he was not in a position to make a statement about the possibility of a meeting with President Eisenhower.

He said it would not be easy to summon a Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference quickly. These Commonwealth meetings could only take place at certain dates.

TORY REPLY

Labour member, Mr Arthur Lewis, then asked Mr Macmillan to disavow the anti-American feelings expressed by "some of his political friends" who had signed a motion, criticising the United States, now before the House. Mr Lewis said that some of the signatories of this motion had since become members of the Government. He called on them to withdraw the motion or "resign".

Speaking for the right-wing Conservatives, R. Reader Harris, said: "There would be very grave disaffection if the Prime Minister appeared to be rushing over to America with unseemly haste. A lot of people here would like to see the President coming over here to see the Prime Minister."

His statement was greeted with cries of "Hear, Hear"—France-Press.

Britons To Stay In Singapore

Singapore, Jan. 23. Almost two-thirds of British expatriate officers have decided to stay in Singapore to help run a "Malayanised" government service, the Straits Times reported today.

In most Singapore government departments key men had elected to stay.

The total of 488 expatriate officers were given the option of remaining for a year or more or quitting because of Malayisation.

Two hundred and sixty three or 64 per cent of the total had elected to stay.

In Malaya it is reported that 65 per cent of expatriates would stay after Malaya attains independence within the British Commonwealth on August 31.—Reuter.

The Reason Why

Sheffield, Jan. 24.

When Mrs Lily Monfredi received an electric bill for £32 this week she told her husband to have the electricity cut off.

"We'll see our way to bed by the street lights," she said. But when the main switch was pulled, the neighbourhood street lights—32 of them—went out too. The Yorkshire Electricity Board reported today that the reason Mrs Monfredi's bill was so high was that the street lights had been connected to her line by mistake.—United Press.

OVER THE FIRST HURDLE... U.S. MIDDLE EAST DOCTRINE WINS APPROVAL

Washington, Jan. 24.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee tonight overwhelmingly approved President Eisenhower's plan to use economic aid and force "if necessary" to block Russian penetration in the Middle East.

The vote was 24 to 2. The proposal now goes before the full House of Representatives, which was expected to add its overwhelming endorsement late next week.

The House group made five minor changes in the President's original resolution. But it voted him essentially the authority he sought to keep Russia from establishing a Middle East foothold.

SENATE TROUBLE

While the programme seemed likely to pass through the House without difficulty, trouble was building up in the Senate.

The Secretary of State, Mr John Foster Dulles, went before the combined Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees for a third day today and encountered an angry Democratic attack on his foreign policies.

Senator J. William Fulbright, who led the attack, charged that his policies had been "harmful to our interests."

He demanded a full-scale Congressional review of Mr Dulles' policies before acting on the Middle East resolution.

TRUMAN'S MOVE

Former President Truman also stepped into the controversy by urging Congress to overhaul the President's proposal to fill what he termed a "void" left by the administration. But he said Congress had "no choice except to take some action."

Mr Truman outlined seven points in which he said Congress could help strengthen the Eisenhower Doctrine.

One was the desirability to strengthen the UN forces in that area as a means of stopping the chronic state of guerrilla war on the borders of Israel.

Congress should support the Eisenhower Doctrine. But he recommended that Congress consider these areas as among those on which Congress should suggest policy to the Administration.

★ The adequacy of US military forces to act in Middle East "in such a way as to repel aggression without bringing about atomic war."

★ The importance of the US acting in co-operation with the United Nations and its allies in dealing with the Middle East crisis.

★ The need to improve power to offset "the mounting economic power of the Communist bloc."

★ The desirability of ending arms shipments to the Middle East by Russia "and eventually all nations."

★ The need to strengthen the U.N. forces in the Middle East as a way of "stopping the chronic state of guerrilla war on the borders of Israel."

★ The need to find a constructive solution to the conflict between Israel and Arab states with justice to both sides.

★ The great importance of the long-range development of Middle East resources.—United Press.

RENEWED HUNGARY FIGHTING

Vienna, Jan. 24.

About 200 Hungarian partisans have been captured in renewed fighting in the Bukk hills between Eger and Miskolc in north-east Hungary. It was reported today.

These reports said there was armed resistance to the Kadar regime in several parts of the country.

Unconfirmed reports from Budapest said that 500 Russian troops at Bala had deserted and fled across the Yugoslav border 20 miles south of the town.

Four secret police officers have been killed by partisans, the reports said.

Miners' Opposition

United Press adds: The reports said the incident occurred near Miskolc, capital of the restive Borsod province. Anti-Kadar resistance was quickly crushed by Hungarian militia.

The reports of unrest at Miskolc coincided with clear indications that the miners of Pecs and Komlo, near the Yugoslav frontier, were keeping up their bitter passive resistance to the Kadar regime.—Reuter & United Press.

FIRST TIME

The new draft recommends that the Disarmament Commission and its sub-committee specifically "give continued consideration to the plan of Mr Eisenhower... for exchanging military blueprints and mutual aerial inspection, and the plan of Mr Bulganin... for establishing control posts at strategic centres."

A U.S. spokesman noted that although the United States had agreed to discuss the plan of the Soviet Premier prior to this, this is the first time the Russians have formally agreed to put the Eisenhower plan on the sub-committee agenda.

It has been discussed by the sub-committee before, but over Soviet protests.—United Press.

'Chou And Nehru At Loggerheads'

New Delhi, Jan. 24.

Mr Chou En-lai now visiting India, gave Mr Nehru, Indian Prime Minister, his assessment of the latest position in Budapest at a meeting today.

According to political circles, Mr Chou who visited Budapest last week, assured Mr Nehru that if the situation was given time to stabilise completely without outside interference the Soviet Union would begin to withdraw her troops from Hungary.

At their last meeting they were known to have differed in their assessment of the situation in Hungary, the Chinese Premier supporting the necessity for Soviet intervention.

The length of their talks to night—(3 hours) suggested differences have not been overcome.

Apart from the Hungarian situation the two Prime Ministers are understood to have discussed the Eisenhower plan for the Middle East and the disarmament question.—Reuter.

Fire swept through a four-story garment factory building today with a flash of flames which leapt through windows and scared panicked women as they fled, some with clothes and hair on fire.

Ten were killed and 30 injured. The bodies were found within six hours of the discovery of the blaze, which forced the fleeing women to jam fire escapes in frantic attempts to get away.

Fire Captain Paul Hines said: "There's a possibility there are still some more poor souls in there."—United Press.

IKE'S DOCTRINE INVOLVES WAR RISK

But Congressional Rejection Would Be Worse

Aspects of the continuous progress by the USA in the field of military technology are revealed here. Picture top shows members of the army Chemical Centre in Edgewood, Maryland, giving a demonstration of newly-developed resuscitators. These consist of two hose assemblies joined by a rubber connector to an anesthetic-type mask, a modified US Army gas mask and a standard gas mask canister. Air inhaled by the first-aid man is purified by the canister and the hose is filled with purified air.

When the first-aid man exhales, the pure air is forced through the hose into the casualty's lungs. Picture bottom shows a B-57 light bomber which has been modified for the US Air Research and Development Command Programme for the testing of missile guidance components. Separate hydraulic and electrical systems were added for the missile guidance system and ammonia and nitrogen tanks have been incorporated for cooling the missile nose.—Express Photo.

RUMANIA GOES BACK ON WORD Election Promise

Washington, Jan. 24. Rumania has refused to permit the United States to send observers to the Rumanian elections on February 3, in spite of a promise made by the Rumanian Government in September last, the State Department spokesman said tonight.

The spokesman said he regretted the Bucharest Government had not kept its word. He said Rumania had agreed to send three observers to the American presidential elections last November on a reciprocal basis.

The Bucharest Government declared its refusal was justified by the statements of certain American leaders, which were interpreted by Rumania as interference in its domestic affairs, the State Department spokesman said.

Feared Presence

Official American circles said today the Rumanian attitude indicated that the Rumanian Government feared the presence of American observers.

Replying to questions, the State Department spokesman said the US Government also send invitations to the Soviet Union, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, proposing a reciprocal exchange of election observers.

He said only Rumania and the Soviet Union accepted the proposal. Poland replied that there were Polish press correspondents in the United States and that it was unnecessary to send specialised observers to follow the presidential campaign.

The three Rumanian observers spent three weeks in the United States.—France-Press.

Washington, Jan. 24. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther has told Congress that President Eisenhower's Doctrine for the Middle East involved the "risk" of open war with Russia.

But Gruenther, recently retired Allied Supreme Commander in Europe, said the dangers to world peace are greater if Congress fails to give the President power to use US military forces if necessary to block Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Such a congressional resolution, Gruenther said, would make clear the US position and perhaps prevent Russia from miscalculating how the US would react to Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Closed Session

Gruenther gave the testimony in closed session last Thursday before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The Committee made the testimony public today.

Gruenther told the committee "we must bear in mind that the Soviets are liable to miscalculate."

But, he continued, "they would lose a war if they started it now."

The committee made the testimony public as it went into another secret session to vote on the President's proposed Middle East resolution.

Gruenther's testimony was heavily censored to delete security matters.—United Press.

Japanese To Salvage Own Ships

Tokyo, Jan. 24. More than 250 Japanese warships which were sunk off New Britain and New Guinea will be salvaged by the Nanyo Boeki Kaisha Salvage Company, a company spokesman said here today.

The spokesman said a group of 60 Japanese salvage experts were due to leave in February for the area to make an underwater survey before commencing salvage operations next April.

The spokesman said Japan was given permission to salvage the vessels by the New Guinea authorities last October.

The spokesman estimated more than 800,000 tons of shipping were sunk off New Britain and New Guinea during the last war and that a company salvage crew totalling 122 could recover about 100,000 tons of scrap within five years.—Reuter.

Ship Charter Cancellation Suit Filed

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 24. A suit for $800,000 has been filed in the US District Court here over alleged cancellation of a ship charter under a wartime restriction clause.

The suit was brought by Saguenay Terminals Ltd. of Canada against Monteverde Cia. Armadora of Liberia, owner of the Liberty ship National Leader.

The Canadian firm claimed in its brief that the Liberian firm was "wholly unjustified" in cancelling its charter after two years of a five-year contract.

CHARTERED 1954

Saguenay said the Liberty ship was chartered in 1954 under an agreement which included a provision allowing either side to back out in case the United States, Canada or the United Kingdom went to war and requisitioned merchant vessels.

The Canadian firm added that Monteverde served notice in November, 1955, that it was cancelling the charter under that provision, forcing Saguenay to charter other shipping.—United Press.

Fewer Russians On Embassy Staff In Japan

Tokyo, Jan. 24. The Russian Embassy staff in Tokyo will be limited to 55 persons, 10 fewer than that originally demanded by the Moscow Government, it was reported today.

The two governments were reported to have come to an agreement on the size of their embassies in Tokyo and Moscow at a meeting on Wednesday between Acting Soviet Ambassador Sergei Titkhvinsky and European Affairs Counsellor Shinsaku Hosen of the Foreign Office.

Documents covering a formal agreement were expected to be exchanged between the two governments before the end of the month.—United Press.

US REJECTS RED BASE CHARGE

Washington, Jan. 24. The United States today rejected Soviet charges that it was building bases around Russia as a springboard for an atomic war.

In a formal statement the State Department described the Soviet charges as "propaganda intimidation."

Mr. Lincoln White, the State Department's spokesman, read the formal statement when he was asked for comment on the Soviet accusations that the United States was setting up bases in foreign countries to launch an atomic war on the Soviet Union.

The statement said: "This reaction on the part of the Soviet Union was anticipated and came as no surprise to the Department. It follows closely the reaction of the Union on the creation of NATO, the expansion of that organization to include Greece, Turkey and the Federal Republic of Germany."

Soviet reaction was the same to all other collective defence arrangements to which the United States became a party.

"Now the Soviet is, of course, modernising its forces just as the United States and other countries are doing," the statement continued. "The alliances to which we are a party are solely for collective defense. The Soviet Union knows this and these alliances are not going to be disrupted by propaganda intimidation."—Reuter.

Algerian Rebels Training In Morocco

FRENCH AMBUSH SUPPLY TRAIN NEAR BORDER

Algiers, Jan. 24.

French officials charged here today that rebel prisoners have admitted training in a Moroccan camp and moving ammunition and explosives into Algeria from there.

The charge followed a French ambush yesterday of a giant rebel pack train which had wound its way across the Moroccan border just west of Ain Sefra.

The supply train included a large amount of ammunition, explosives, mines, detonator cord plus pharmaceuticals and medical supplies, French authorities said.

They backed up their charge with a second report from the border area.

Killed Many

It said that French patrols killed "many individuals" who were attempting to cross from Morocco through the barbed wire entanglements in the Sidi Boujdane border area just west of Marnia. Marnia is 93 miles west of Oran.

A total of 87 rebels were reported killed and 88 either taken prisoner or arrested in several security operations launched on Sunday, while 22 soldiers and soldiers were wounded by terrorists in scattered incidents.

A clash between French Legionnaires and rebels south of Tablat resulted in the death of 23 rebels. In an operation launched near Bone, 19 rebels, including a number of known terrorist leaders, were killed, six more rebels were killed and 10 taken prisoner in an operation in the Sahel Djebel mountain region, in which two French soldiers were injured.

Eastern Clash

Nine rebels were killed after a clash with security forces in the Constantine region of Eastern Algeria.

A total of 43 rebels were arrested after a house to house search in Algiers. A considerable quantity of arms and ammunition were seized during this and other security operations.

A terrorist-launched grenade injured 13 persons, five of them seriously, in a Batna bar today. One European and two Moslem civilians and four French soldiers were injured in terrorist attacks in Algeria today. —United Press & France-Press.

WILMA MONTESI CASE

Accused's Former Lover To Refresh Memory

Venice, Jan. 24.

"Black Swan" Anamaria Moneta Caglio promised today to appear in court to "refresh the memory" of her former lover, Ugo Montagna, accused of complicity in the mysterious death of playgirl Wilma Montesi.

More Carbon Dioxide Would Melt Icecaps

Dunedin, Jan. 23.

A New Zealand scientist said yesterday that if the existing percentage of carbon dioxide gas in the air was doubled the earth's temperature would rise enough to melt Polar icecaps and flood many major cities.

The scientist, T.A. Rafter, the senior chemist of the Dominion Physical Laboratory, was addressing an Australian and New Zealand association for the advancement of science congress.

Mr Rafter said that due to the large-scale burning of fossil fuels such as coal appreciable amounts of carbon dioxide gas had been added to the earth's atmosphere. By 1950 the amount added in the past century would be more than 15 per cent.

Mr Rafter said if the existing percentage of carbon dioxide in the air was doubled the average temperature would be raised sufficiently to melt masses of ice, raise the level of the oceans and swamp many major coastal cities.

Fortunately there was a constant exchange of gas between the air and the sea and this would continue to act as a brake on the concentration of gas in the air, he added. —China Mail Special.

Legal Adviser For State Department

Washington, Jan. 24. George Frederick Reinhardt, American Ambassador to South Vietnam, will succeed Douglas MacArthur, nephew of the General, as legal adviser to the State Department, an informed source said today.

MacArthur was recently appointed Ambassador to Japan.

Reinhardt, served in the second world war as an assistant political adviser to Eisenhower. In the Mediterranean and European theatres, he later served as First Secretary to the American Embassy in Moscow and as director of the office for East European affairs in the State Department, prior to his appointment as Ambassador to Saigon, in 1955. —France-Press.

Montagna is one of 11 persons charged with crimes in the four-year-old Montesi case ranging from culpable homicide to obstruction of justice.

Miss Montesi was found half-nude and dead on a beach near Montagna's fashionable hunt club and beach resort south of Rome in 1953 a few hours after she attended what witness called a "dope-and-sex" party at the establishment.

Temperamental

The temperamental Miss Caglio, who first exploded the scandal with her testimony in 1954, told Italian reporters today she will appear in court to refresh Montagna's memory in the case. She said Miss Montesi succeeded her as Montagna's mistress.

Annamaria, a striking brunette when she first hit the headlines three years ago, was dubbed the "Black Swan" by the Italian press. She has become a blonde.

Montagna told the court yesterday her accusations were the "shameful vengeance" of a jealous woman. He challenged her to a "psychiatric duel."

He is the third major defendant in the trial to plead innocent.

Denied Charges

The other major defendant is 78-year-old former Rome police chief Savio Polito, who has denied charges of having set up the case to avoid a scandal.

Polito failed to appear in court at the opening of today's session, pleading a "slight indisposition." He promised to appear later in the day.

Court President Mario Tiberi, who was expected to recall Montagna to the witness stand today, decided instead to concentrate on minor defendants charged with false testimony, apparently in a search for some detail which might snowball into decisive evidence.

The first two defendants summoned at the opening of today's session failed to appear.

Former Guard

The first who did answer the roll call was Venanzio de Felice, a former guard at Montagna's Capocotta hunting lodge who is charged with false testimony. He denied reports that he and his wife saw Miss Montesi's dead body on the beach.

He also denied that sex parties were held at the club, where nude men and women took moonlight strolls on the lonely beach and went swimming in the surf. —United Press.

Constitution Reform Postponed In N. Vietnam

Hanoi, Jan. 24.

The North Vietnam Parliament has postponed reform of the constitution but called for the enactment of laws to increase democratic freedom in North Vietnam.

The Parliament, which has been in session since December 29, decided yesterday that the planned revision of the constitution would be discussed at its next session, which will not be held for several months.

At the same time, Members of Parliament presented bills for increased individual freedom, the inviolability of mail and homes, freedom of association, meetings and the press, and the adoption of laws governing trade unions.

ENLARGE LIBERTIES

A reporter for the Assembly stressed that the liberties of the people should be enlarged at the same time that the dictatorship over the "enemies of the people" should be strengthened.

The Parliament approved unanimously the Government's policy in seeking the unification of Vietnam and in the fields of agricultural reform, economy, finances, cultural and social activities and defence.

It adopted a resolution, calling for the strengthening of the armed forces "because of the attitude of the imperialists."

COMPULSORY SERVICE

The resolution urged that a system of compulsory military service be adopted in place of the present system of voluntary service, to transform the "Peoples Army" into a modern army.

In adopting a resolution expressing confidence in the government, the Parliament rose to its feet and shouted, "Long Live Ho Chi Minh." —France-Press.

Czech President, Antonin Zapotocky, said on arrival in the Soviet Union today that his delegation had "come to the Soviet Union to consolidate still further the fraternal ties which unite the peoples of our two countries." The Czech CTS news agency reported.

PAPER EDITOR APOLOGISES TO COMMONS

London, Jan. 24.

The House of Commons today decided to accept an apology of Mr John Junor, editor of the Sunday Express, for an article which appeared in his paper and which a parliamentary committee had adjudged "in serious contempt" of the House.

It agreed, after hearing Mr Junor's personal apology, to proceed no further with the matter.

The article, which had angered the House, appeared on the eve of Britain's petrol rationing last month and alleged that politicians were to get "prodigious supplementary allowances."

Scottish-born Mr Junor, aged 38, was brought to the entrance of the Commons debating Chamber in accordance with centuries-old tradition. He wore a dark lounge suit, in contrast to the uniform of his escort, the Sergeant-at-Arms, who was dressed in a black swallowtail coat, white lace cravat, black silk stockings and black shoes with silver buckles.

Inadequate Apology

The Speaker of the House, Mr W. S. Morrison, told him that the 10-man committee which investigated the article in question felt that he had not sought to establish its truth, nor appeared willing to admit its implications.

"Although given every opportunity to express your regret, you made what the committee was able to regard as an entirely inadequate apology," the speaker said.

Speaking in a marked Scottish accent, Mr Junor said: "I wish to express my sincere and unreserved apologies for any imputation or reflection which I may have cast upon the honour and integrity of members of this House in the article which I published in the Sunday Express on December 16."

"At no time did I intend to be discourteous to Parliament. My only aim was to focus attention on what I considered to be an injustice in the allocation of petrol, namely the petrol allowance given to political parties in the constituencies."

"In my judgment these allowances were improper and an inescapable subject of comment in a free press. That was the view which I held then and hold now, Sir. But I do regret deeply and sincerely that the manner in which I expressed myself should have been such as to be a contempt of this House."

Withdrew

"I have nothing more to say. I now leave myself in the hands of this House."

Mr Junor then withdrew from the chamber, still accompanied by the Sergeant-at-Arms, Major-General Ivor Hughes, who is responsible for carrying out disciplinary measures under the authority of the Speaker, but that in view of the apology made, this House will proceed no further in the matter."

He added that had the apology been couched in different terms or had the demeanour of Mr Junor been different, might have been his duty to proceed with a different motion.

"The dignity of this House is maintained and sustained by a generous regard for an apology properly given," Mr Butler said.

Endorsed

His remarks were endorsed by Mr Hugh Galskell, leader of the Labour Opposition, in response to a question Mr Butler said he regarded "the contempt" as having been purged by the apology. The motion was then passed.

It was the first time in 10 years that a journalist had been summoned to appear before the House of Commons, which has the power to send to gaol if their offence is considered serious enough. —China Mail Special.

Suez Salvage Continuing

Port Said, Jan. 24.

General Raymond Wheeler, United Nations director of canal clearing operations, today denied rumours that work in the Suez Canal had been suspended and said the operations were proceeding according to plan.

Wheeler explained that the operation in Port Said only had been temporarily halted because of the departure of French and British salvage ships.

The work there would resume as soon as some of the United Nations salvage ships, now occupied in the Canal itself, were available, he added. —France-Press.

US Programme To Develop N-Power For Ships

Washington, Jan. 24.

The United States Atomic Energy Commission and Maritime Commission today announced a joint programme to develop a nuclear power reactor to propel merchant ships.

The announcement described the programme as "long range" and said it would be in addition to further progress on developing and constructing the first nuclear powered merchant ship announced by President Eisenhower last October.

The Atomic Energy Commission would develop the reactors for the vessels and the Maritime Administration would build the ships and their propulsion plants and take over the nuclear reactors once they had passed the development phase.

The two agencies had placed contracts with six United States manufacturers to produce four different reactor systems. Personnel from both agencies would be under the direction of Mr Richard F. Goodwin of the AEC. Mr Goodwin, an engineer, has been with the Commission since 1950 and recently held the position of Director, Technical Operations Division of the San Francisco Operations Office. —China Mail Special.

Peace Message From Airman

Colombo, Jan. 24.

A former flight engineer in the Japanese air force during World War II dropped into the ocean off Ceylon yesterday a stone tablet inscribed with teachings of Buddha and a message of peace to all mankind.

He is S. Piratun, now a sales engineer on the Japanese "floating fair" ship Nishio Maru. He revealed that he was involved in several armed strikes in this and other regions during the war. While thinking then about the suffering that war causes he made a secret vow to revisit as many places as possible and drop peace messages into the ocean depths. —United Press.

Russia Proposes Both Vietnams And Koreans Be Admitted To United Nations

United Nations, Jan. 24.

RUSSIA tonight proposed the simultaneous admission to the United Nations of both the Communist and free States of Korea and Vietnam.

Mr Arkady Sobolev reversed Russia's previous position and submitted to the General Assembly's Special Political Committee a resolution calling for the simultaneous admission of "the Democratic People's Republic of Korea," the Republic of Korea, the Democratic People's Republic of Vietnam and South Vietnam.

When it proposed the package admission of 16 members in 1955, Russia excluded Korea and Vietnam as countries "in which a problem of unification exists."

The Soviet Union vetoed the application of the Republic of (South) Korea in 1949 and that of South Vietnam in 1952. Applications from North Korea and North Vietnam failed to obtain the seven votes necessary for Security Council recommendation. New members are recommended by the Security Council and elected by the General Assembly.

Early this week, the United States said a dozen other countries put resolutions be-

VON BRENTANO

GERMAN FOREIGN POLICY UNCHANGED

Bonn, Jan. 24.

Dr Heinrich von Brentano, the West German Foreign Minister, said tonight his government saw no cause to change its foreign policy as a result of recent international events.

Though world developments had become more fluid and the Polish and Hungarian events had shown that the "satellite" system had become brittle there had been no decisive change in the policy in the Soviet Union.

"Stronger than ever before we (Germans) have come to realise that the Soviet Union is not prepared to accept an evolution, a peaceful change of conditions."

"On the contrary until this hour she has remained faithful to her conception that the whole world must be ruled and suppressed by her ideology," Dr von Brentano said, speaking on the Hessia Radio.

NO DOUBTS

Dr von Brentano said there should be no doubt in the minds of the Soviet rulers that both West Germany and the re-united Germany of tomorrow would be parts of the Free World.

"A united Germany is perhaps a better guarantee for the security of the Soviet people than an untrue people, or a people whose freedom is threatened and who stand permanently on the alert to defend themselves because they feel threatened and cannot trust a neighbour who refuses to grant them freedom and peace," he said. —China Mail Special.

Lennox-Boyd Arrives In Gold Coast

Accra, Jan. 24.

The Colonial Secretary, Mr Alan Lennox-Boyd, arrived here today to discuss with the Government and political party leaders the constitution which will give the Gold Coast independence in the British Commonwealth.

Lennox-Boyd, who flew in from Central Africa, was here six days ago but he broke his African tour to return to London when Harold Macmillan succeeded Sir Anthony Eden as Prime Minister and formed a new British Government.

Lennox-Boyd said at the airport he will be "everything I can" to help solve the Gold Coast's constitutional differences. Asked if the British Conservative Government would grant self-government to other colonies which regard the Gold Coast as "a good precedent," Lennox-Boyd replied: "We always honour our words." —United Press.

Tomorrow's Chances At The Valley By "RAPIER"

Racing enthusiasts will again be thronging to Happy Valley tomorrow afternoon for the second and concluding day of the Hongkong Jockey Club's Seventh Race Meeting.

The First Saddling Bell will be rung at 1.30 p.m. with the First Race starting at 2.00 p.m. sharp. The Pearce Memorial Cup will be the main attraction and the Special Cash Sweep will be decided on this race.

M. Samarc, who was injured as a result of a fall when riding the late Allied Victory in the St. Andrew's Stakes at the Fourth Race Meeting, has fully recovered and will resume riding tomorrow afternoon and a warm welcome will be extended to him.

FIRST RACE

(Regular Day Handicap (First Section)—One Mile.)

The opening race of the day will witness the return of counter between Fox Hunter (S. L. Chan) and Gladie (S. C. E. Hulse). On the last occasion they met, Fox Hunter had the better of Gladie, K. Kwok up, by three quarters of a length in the Goodwood Handicap over 1 1/4 miles at the last meeting for the second position.

Tomorrow Fox Hunter will be receiving 6 lb. from Gladie instead of 12 lb. as at the last meeting. Fox Hunter must command the most support but, although I am inclined to nominate it to win, I look to Gladie to give it a good race and with a little luck reverse its last defeat.

For the third position I recommend Every Day (Allan Chan) or Good Condition (Horace Chan), both of which have an excellent chance.

SECOND RACE

(Junk Bay Handicap: From 1 1/4 Mile Post.)

This sprint event is confined to Class 9 ponies. The following should be prominent: Barometer (H. K. Chuang).

AMENDED RUGGER FIXTURES

By "PAK LO"

As promised in yesterday's China Mail the amended rugby fixture list is given in full, underneath. One game which springs to the notice after, of course, the games against the Japanese Touring XV, is the one arranged for Thursday, February 7, at Sek Kong at 4.00 p.m.

This game was suggested as the result of a recent "friendly" between a New Territories Army XV and the XV from HINGZ Kaniere.

The Army are keen to entertain the Kiwis at Sek Kong and Brigadier Waldron has kindly agreed that the Army XV will be known as Brig. Waldron's XV. It is also intended to have the band of one of the Gurkha Regiments in attendance to play before the game and during the interval, and it is hoped that a large crowd will turn out to grace this "gal" occasion.

Here is the amended fixture list:

January

Sat. 20th—Training of Combined Citizens and Combined Services at Sookunpo, 3 p.m.
Sun. 27th—Japanese Touring XV arrives at Kai Tak, Noon. Training for Combined Services and Citizens.

February

Sat. 2nd—Games for those not included in Colony XV. Details will be published after selection of Colony side.

Sun. 3rd—All Hongkong v. Japanese Touring XV. Club, 6.30 p.m.
Thurs. 7th—Brig. Waldron's XV v. HINGZ Kaniere, Sek Kong, 4 p.m.

Sat. 9th—Club v. Army North, Sookunpo, 3 p.m. Police v. Navy, Boundary Street, 3 p.m.; Army South v. R.A.F. Boundary Street, 4.15 p.m.

Sat. 16th—Army S. v. Club, Police v. Army N., R.A.F. v. Navy, 3 p.m.

Sat. 23rd—Navy v. Army N., R.A.F. v. Club, Army S. v. Police, Wed. 27th—Combined Services v. Combined Citizens, Club, 6.30 p.m.

The Club v. Wayfoong match will become a Wednesday fixture, but details are not as yet available.

HOME RUGGER

Results of today's two Rugby Union matches were:
Swansea 0, Combined South Africa 10 points.
Oxford University 12, Army 0.

Evergreen (K. Kwok), Applause (A. Oskayano) and Pearl of Hongkong (Alex Lam).
I do not think we need look further than Barometer as the eventual winner. Barometer has properly turned up for this meeting and I feel it will have a very good chance of accounting for this race.

THIRD RACE

(Big Wave Bay Handicap (First Section)—One Mile.)

Tamerlane, W. P. K. Ling up presents a serious proposition here as the pony has shown great improvement and should start a firm favourite. Dutch Rocket (Lai Chun-fai) which has put on a lot of confidence during morning gallops. I am of the opinion that it stands a very good chance of chalking up a belated triumph here.

FOURTH RACE

(Pearce Memorial Cup: From 2 Mile Post.)

This is the main event of the afternoon on which the special Cash Sweep will be decided. The ponies to watch are Helicon (Robert Tsai), Glen-sheir (A. Oskayano), American Carrot (H. K. Hung), Cordon Rouge (P. Plumby) and Tell Me Tonight (P. Y. T. Wei).

FIFTH RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

SIXTH RACE

(Miles Day Handicap: From 1 1/4 Mile Post.)

In this race, confined to Class 9 ponies, an interesting finish should ensue. Amapol (M. Samarc) will undoubtedly be made hot favourite and on form it should certainly have a good chance of winning.

SEVENTH RACE

(Picnic Bay Handicap: 1 1/4 Miles.)

In this race, confined to Class 9 ponies, an interesting finish should ensue. Amapol (M. Samarc) will undoubtedly be made hot favourite and on form it should certainly have a good chance of winning.

EIGHTH RACE

(Regular Day Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This is the final event of the meeting and is confined to the Second Section of Class 5 ponies. Cover Girl (H. K. Hung) appears to have the best recommendation for a win.

NINTH RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

ELEVENTH RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

Twelfth RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This distance for Class 9 ponies in 1.52 at the last meeting with Andrew Lam up in a novice race carrying 166 lb. On that performance, it was promoted to this class. As it is now in splendid condition, I think it will just about do it again.

Enduro and My Pal are in fine condition at the moment and should have a say at the finish.

SIXTH RACE

(Miles Day Handicap: From 1 1/4 Mile Post.)

In this sprint race for Class 3 ponies it will be a difficult problem to spot the winner.

In view of its previous win in the Sandy Bay Handicap over this distance at the Third Race Meeting, Chasington (P. Plumby) will no doubt command the most support.

With other capable sprinters among the entries such as Bluegrass (H. K. Hung), Diana (P. Y. T. Wei), Knock-Again (C. H. Renfrew) and The Cherub (M. Samarc), the race should be fast. The finish should be fought out between these five.

SEVENTH RACE

(Picnic Bay Handicap: 1 1/4 Miles.)

In this race, confined to Class 9 ponies, an interesting finish should ensue. Amapol (M. Samarc) will undoubtedly be made hot favourite and on form it should certainly have a good chance of winning.

EIGHTH RACE

(Regular Day Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This is the final event of the meeting and is confined to the Second Section of Class 5 ponies. Cover Girl (H. K. Hung) appears to have the best recommendation for a win.

NINTH RACE

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

Eleventh RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

Twelfth RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

Thirteenth RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

Fourteenth RACE

(The Wave Bay Handicap (Second Section)—One Mile.)

This race is confined to Class 6 ponies. I like the chances of Serabo (P. Plumby), Fortuna (T. H. Yau), My Pal (Robert Tsai) and Drenthout (Alex Lam).

RACING GAVE THEM RICHES He Ruled His Stable With Iron Discipline By PERCY RUDD

Sir Joseph Hawley, a Kentish baronet, won four Derbys and probably more than £50,000 on each of them in bets. Two of the victories were in successive years. Over the second of these, with Musjid, Sir Joseph cleared £75,000. He collected the money himself at Tattersalls and the business took so long that his bank had to stay open after hours waiting for him to pay in.

He controlled his stable with an iron discipline which went so far that he weighed the lads riding in secret trials himself, so that neither they nor the trainer knew what they were carrying. But he was generous when his horses won. Job Marston was given £2,000 when he rode Teddington to success in the Derby.

Denis O'Kelly, an Irish adventurer who came to England in 1748 at the age of 28, was so poor when he reached London that he earned his bread money carrying sedan-chairs. He spent some time in Fleet Prison as a debtor, but when released progressed so well that in 1770 he paid 650 guineas for a half-share in the immortal Eclipse, who the year before had won his first race, the Goodwood Stakes. O'Kelly produced another 1750 guineas and made his own property one of the greatest horses in the history of the English Turf.

Applauded from races won with him, Eclipse, who was never beaten, brought him £250,000 in stakes. O'Kelly won the second Derby with Young Eclipse. Two other sons of Eclipse were successful in the race and his offspring in 23 years won stakes amounting to £150,000.

The third Earl of Egremont, who was born the year the Jockey Club was founded, was until Tulyar's success completed a nap hand for the Aga Khan the only man who had won the Derby five times. He also won five Oaks. Lord Egremont lived on a big estate at Petworth, near Goodwood and the joint revenue from this and other landed properties in England and Ireland reached something like £300,000 a year. There was never anything to rival the annual treat he gave to the poorer people who dwell in the vicinity of his Sussex home. All were welcome and he had nothing to him to entertain 10,000 people to a fireworks display in his park.

John Bowes, of Streatham, Barnard Castle, Co. Durham, died in 1885, fifty years after he had won the first of his four Derbys and much richer than when he came into the world. He was born out of wedlock, and though his father, who was a peer of both England and Scotland, married his mother, on his deathbed, the courts would not permit the son to succeed to either title. But in all other respects he was "lucky John Bowes."

Seams of coal discovered on his land were so rich that in twelve years they brought him £1,000,000 from royalties alone. He won the Derby twice before he was 33, married a French actress and went on to a long series of triumphs on the Turf.

His small stables. Thomas Parr was one of the odder racing figures in the middle years of the nineteenth century. Originally an itinerant hawk of tea in the villages of Devon and Cornwall, he became a trainer of racehorses at Wantage, on the edge of the Berkshire Downs. Here he had astonishing luck in getting hold of good horses cheaply and from his small stable made such an impact on his new world that he won two St. Leger, two Ascot Gold Cups, the Cambridgehire in two successive seasons and the Cesarewitch.

But most of the time he was in a state of chronic impetuosity. Once when he took a horse to York he was arrested because some years before he had left the city without paying his hotel bill. His faithful hand had saddled the horse, backed him with borrowed money and after he had won, paid the debt to secure his master's release.

The Scottish ironmaster James Merry, who achieved a feat without parallel in the history of racing when his Oaks winner Marie Stuart and his Derby winner Doncaster ran first and second in the Leger of 1873, was a leading owner and breeder for nearly thirty years. Yet his father had been a dealer in miscellaneous goods until one day when peddling among the Ayrshire hills he picked up a stone which had a high iron content. The son won a fortune which he did not need (he sold the stone for £100,000).

His faithful hand had saddled the horse, backed him with borrowed money and after he had won, paid the debt to secure his master's release.

The Scottish ironmaster James Merry, who achieved a feat without parallel in the history of racing when his Oaks winner Marie Stuart and his Derby winner Doncaster ran first and second in the Leger of 1873, was a leading owner and breeder for nearly thirty years. Yet his father had been a dealer in miscellaneous goods until one day when peddling among the Ayrshire hills he picked up a stone which had a high iron content. The son won a fortune which he did not need (he sold the stone for £100,000).

But most of the time he was in a state of chronic impetuosity. Once when he took a horse to York he was arrested because some years before he had left the city without paying his hotel bill. His faithful hand had saddled the horse, backed him with borrowed money and after he had won, paid the debt to secure his master's release.

VICTOR BARNA SAYS

Sponge Bat Ban Will Hit Japanese Harder Than Any One Of Us

London, Jan. 24.
Victor Barna, five times World Singles Table Tennis Champion, today answered the Japanese World Champion, Ichiro Ogimura's comments on the sponge bat controversy. In an interview with the "Evening News," the former Hungarian, now naturalised British, player said: "Ogimura is quite wrong when he says—the move in Europe to outlaw the sponge bat is made by those who wish to slow down the game."

Barna said that "practically all the world's leading players, whether sponge users or not, have expressed a desire to see the sponge bat banned. It is ruining the game."

"If it is banned," the former World Champion told the London newspaper, "it will hit the Japs harder than any one of us, as they are perpetually experimenting and flooding the market with various sponge bats."

On Ogimura's remarks about there being something wrong with the youngsters if he should still be World Champion at the age of 30, Barna readily agrees and comments: "The penholder grip enforces much more movement round the table, which means the playing lifetime of a Japanese is shorter than that of a person using the western style grip."

Concerning the Japanese player's allegations that Richard Bergman and Johnny Leach (English former World Champions) were too old for table tennis, Barna, who will manage the England Superleague Cup team in the World Championships in Stockholm, told the "Evening News": "For years now, Richard and Johnny have been two of the exceptions because they keep themselves absolutely fit. They have great stamina and 'aging' apart, at 39 and 34, are capable of beating anyone in the world."

He added that "the Japanese players are not as fit as they claim to be. They are not as fast as they claim to be. They are not as strong as they claim to be. They are not as good as they claim to be. They are not as smart as they claim to be. They are not as brave as they claim to be. They are not as honest as they claim to be. They are not as kind as they claim to be. They are not as gentle as they claim to be. They are not as polite as they claim to be. They are not as respectful as they claim to be. They are not as obedient as they claim to be. They are

Still On The Wing

Gresley Rovers, the Birmingham League club, have a player on their books named Sammy Crooks. Yes, the same Sammy who played for England and Derby County. Mr Crooks is also the club's manager, but he is still a signed player and turns out occasionally. Yet Sammy was playing with Harry Bedford, George Mee, and Tommy Cooper, Derby players of a past generation.

U.S. MOVE WILL HARM BRITISH STANDARDS

By Richard Baerlein

The American raid on the British bloodstock market did not end with the December sales. Since then American agents have been round the studs buying only the very best material, chiefly foals and brood mares.

There has been a noticeable change in the American demand in 1956. No longer are the Americans keen on yearlings.

All the expensive yearlings purchased at British sales have not realized expectations in the United States, and it is thought that they have not had time to become acclimatized.

Whether this is the case or not is a matter of opinion, because some English three and four-year-olds have gone straight to the United States and done exceptionally well.

UNDESIRABLE

The idea now is to buy foals and send them over before they are a year old. They have then had plenty of time in America before they are required to run.

Now a most undesirable trade, as far as British racing is concerned, has sprung up.

The Americans can go round the studs and offer a breeder a very high price for his foal, plus an interest in the sale of that foal at the Saratoga Sales the following August.

The offer is such that no breeder for sale can possibly refuse, because he is going to get at least double, and probably more, than if he put the same animal in the yearling sales at Dublin, Doncaster or Newmarket.

DETIMENTAL

One cannot blame the American offer and one cannot blame the breeder for accepting it. It is good business on the part of both.

But it is bound to have a detrimental effect on the standard of bloodstock which is produced in the British Isles.

Probably the finest foal of last year is shortly to leave Britain. A five-figure sum was offered for him, plus an interest in his sale at Saratoga.

It is no use planning to alter the distances of our classic races and make other alterations, to try to prevent French triumphs on the English turf unless the real cause of the French successes has been accurately diagnosed.

VALUABLE

If the present trend continues, the French will be able to beat us at all distances.

Altering the distances of our races is not going to make much difference, and one must remember that the most valuable animals today for the American market are the offspring of Tulyar.

The fact that he was a stayer, and was bred to be a stayer, has had no effect on the American attitude.

It is a fallacy to imagine that the Americans simply want sprinters. They want high-class horses and they are steadily pruning them out of the British Isles.

SUPER OPTIMISTS

The ambition of Burnley Boys' Brigade is to secure at least one point in the local Senior Youth League before the season ends. At the moment they are bottom, pointless after ten games, and with an adverse goal average of 15-104.

STEADIER TONE AT THE CLOSE

Prices Drift
In Dull Week

By A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

The feeling in Ice House Street yesterday afternoon was that pre-Chinese New Year selling had ended and the better sentiment which developed late in the day might be the forerunner of a brighter market next week.

This week's market has been dull. Turnover has dropped from $3.55 million to $2.73 million. On the week 14 shares are steady, five are higher and five lower. Last week's tally was 12 higher, seven steady and five lower.

One reason for the sharp fall in turnover was that two people who were liquidating quite substantially last week have either stopped selling or have sold far fewer shares this week.

Also, the pre-Chinese New Year restraint was very much in evidence for the greater part of the week.

TENSION

Possibly another inhibiting factor is the continuing air of tension in the Middle East where Israel is holding on to the Gaza and Akaba Gulf in defiance of a United Nations resolution.

Rumours that the Bank of China had been reduced to a mere clearing bank in the Colony that the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank might take similar action but I understand that this is not so.

Hongkong and Shanghai Banks have dropped another $25 to $1015. The e was a sales yesterday 10 in the afternoon — one at $1020 and the other at the lower rate. I notice the London register rate is down 2-10-0 on the week. This may well have something to do with it.

A striking feature of the market for the last two weeks has been the dullness of utilities — usually these shares are the leaders. This is probably the result of seasonal influences. Yesterday afternoon they appeared to be a little more active.

Other shares, notably Wharves, Lands, Docks, Dairy Farm and Watsons have been more interesting. I imagine this position will change up with the interim coming up.

CASH BONUS

Hongkong and Wharves Docks are paying the $5 cash bonus on February 11. An announcement of this bonus was made towards the end of last year. The shares are up 75 cents on the week. Another in

WALL STREET
MANAGES MODEST GAIN

New York, Jan. 24.

With no strong influences working either for or against the market, stocks managed a modest gain — their third rise in as many days — on the smallest turnover since Nov. 23.

The advance, coming after a sharp decline of some duration, was seen by most commentators as technical. A few features moved in response to individual news announcements.

Chief among these was American Sugar Refining which climbed 7½ points to $125 on announcement of a four-for-one stock split and held 5½ points of the rise. Norwich Pharmacal responded by a two-for-one split proposal with a gain of 2 to $58½.

Late strength in Eastman Kodak and demand for Du Pont helped the industrials. Kodak climbed 2½ to $90¾, Du Pont to $184½.

High-priced, Superior Oil of California ran up 43 points to a record high at $418 — highest price paid for any big bond issue since 1930 — but held only 15 points, closing at $1390.

Leadership

Market leadership centred in low-priced stocks, US Hoffman which fell more than 2 points on turnover of an uncertain financial condition then recouped to $12½ off 7½.

Turnover most of the session ran slightly ahead of Wednesday but activity dwindled in the final hour and total sales of 1,910,000 shares compared with 1,920,000.

Industrials as a group rose 1.37 points in their average, rails 0.2 and utilities 0.6.

For most of the list price changes were very narrow, in motor, for instance, Chrysler slipped ½; For rose ½. Of 1,138 issues traded, 229 unchanged with 17 new highs and the same number of new lows.

New York Stock Exchange bond volume was $3,730,000. American Stock Exchange volume was 800,000 shares.

Japan Welcomes
Ike's Decision
On Textiles

Tokyo, Jan. 24.

Japan's textile industry on Wednesday welcomed US President Eisenhower's rejection of tariff increases on cotton velveteen fabrics, but many felt such action was not unexpected.

Industrial sources said that the rejection of the US tariff commission's recommendation for a duty increase was expected especially since Japan's offer to cut down textile exports to the United States. This offer was made by Japan last week.

Some textile people, however, said that since the US-Japanese agreement reached on January 17 to limit Japan's velveteen exports to the US to 2,500,000 square yards would force many smaller firms out of business, it may have been better to have the tariff increased rather than have the ceiling.

REMOVES DISPUTES

A Japanese Government spokesman said that Eisenhower's decision removes possible disputes on velveteen exports to the US for at least five years since Japan will stick to the agreed limit on shipment of the material to the United States.

The spokesman, Tsuruo Komuro, Director of the Textile Bureau of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry, added, however, that settlement of the velveteen question did not mean that all textile issues between the US and Japan were solved. —United Press.

CHICAGO GRAIN
MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 24.

Grain futures prices were irregular on the Board of Trade today, and with the exception of rye, trading was quiet.

Wheat and rye declined on liquidation and reports of moisture from the winter wheat belt. Some hedge-selling occurred in wheat reflecting rejection of wheat from the Government loan by farmers.

Part of the decline in rye was based on news that Argentina was offering this grain on the world market at prices below that of the US and Canada.

Soybeans showed good gains on buying stimulated by favourable reports of December crushings along with an advance in the meal market.

Wheat closed off ½ to 2 cents; soybeans off ¼ to 2½ cents.

WORLD
MARKETS

New York, Jan. 24.

Cotton futures today emerged from a two-week trading pause moving up around $1 a bale, or enough to lift the nearby deliveries to new seasonal highs.

Moderately active dealings featured mills, exporter and commission house buying while hedge selling and liquidation slackened.

Day trader liquidation at the close shaved the extreme gains, but the list ruled still finished not one to 13 points higher. The market opened up 1 to 3 points. New Orleans closed up 6 to 14 points.

A developing new view of the situation acted to shape market sentiment. Analysts reported a tightening in supplies of "free" cotton following the increasing loan stocks which now exceeds 4,000,000 bales.

Figuring domestic consumption for the season around 9,000,000 bales, and allowing for the current loan stock of 1,000,000 bales, the combination would equal this season's estimated crop of around 13,100,000 bales.

Dealers also have to buy a certain amount of cotton to export it as an offset to the Government cotton bought for export earlier in the season, but which they sold to mills under the allowed substitution privilege.

The certificated stock remained at 2,984 bales.

Too Much Foreign
Control Over
Canadian Industry

Montreal, Jan. 24.

A textile industry spokesman today expressed "grave" concern over the extent to which Canadian industry is controlled by foreign interests.

H. Roy Crabtree, President of the Canadian Textile Institute of Canada, said the extent of foreign investment in, and control of, her major industries is "one of the major problems faced by Canada today."

Mr. Crabtree told the Cotton Institute's annual meeting foreign investment still is needed to help develop industry in this country. He added that "only by such investment can this country continue to grow."

Clear Advantages

"But there are clear disadvantages in the extent to which returns from Canadian development are being committed to going outside Canada, mainly to the United States," he said. "And there are even graver dangers in the extent to which residents of other countries exercise control over the policies and conduct of Canadian industry and Canadian workers."

He said that excessive "absentee ownership" is "inevitably detrimental, if only for reason that it cannot be expected to know what is sound or even efficient for operations within the Canadian economy."

Mr. Crabtree said the Canadian cotton textile industry is 95 per cent Canadian-owned compared with less than 50 per cent for all Canadian industry, and is not unduly affected by foreign ownership although it is hard hit by foreign competition.

Development of the industry and others like it is insurance against a dangerous imbalance in a very vulnerable section of our economy," he said.

Canadian cotton mills did better in 1956 than in a 1951-1954 slump, but textile imports into this country are continuing to mount a one per cent reduction during the 12-month period.

Lower Costs

Most of the imports came from the United States, Mr. Crabtree said the US industry had the advantages of lower costs through mass-production, an export subsidy, the high remuneration on the Canadian dollar, and the opportunity to unload surplus distress merchandise on the Canadian market. —United Press.
